JOHN H. STAMLER (1938-1990)

Those of us who were fortunate enough to know John H. Stamler during his time with us know of a man whose life was marked with integrity and compassion, a man with a delightful wit and an acute sense of fairness coupled with a strong desire to be of service.

John was the first Prosecutor in New Jersey ever to be appointed to three consecutive terms. He was first appointed by Governor Brendan Byrne on May 12, 1977, reappointed to a second term by Governor Thomas Kean on November 3, 1982 and then reappointed again to the unprecedented third term by Governor Kean on May 16, 1988.

He was twice chosen to be president of the County Prosecutors Association, serving from 1983 to 1984 and again from 1989 to 1990.

John graduated from Lafayette College and Vanderbilt University Law School and was admitted to the New Jersey Bar in 1965. He was sworn in as an Assistant Union County Prosecutor on December 14, 1967 and was supervisor of the first countywide narcotics strike force, combining county investigators and municipal police officers in a joint assault against drug dealers.

He was known throughout New Jersey as a man who loved law enforcement with an unbridled passion, a man so driven by a desire to be of use to his fellow man that he would not allow the physical pain and problems associated with his heart transplant and fatal illness to stand in the way of performing his duties.

His list of awards, accomplishments and honors fills several pages, but suffice it to say he was indeed recognized for his innovations in such areas as domestic violence, child abuse, victim/witness assistance, crime prevention and most of all, the battle against the scourge of drugs.

Beyond all of that, he took the time to remember birthdays, children and the special events in the lives of friends, staff members and those closest to him.

The Union County Police Academy Building, as well as this special annual scholarship award, are forever named in honor and in memory of "Mister Prosecutor," John H. Stamler.
